

Why Not To Skip Car Waxing

There are more people that do not know the reasons for waxing a car. Even more important there are less people who actually go out and wax their car or have it waxed. There are several different reasons for this. Many consumers do not know that waxing their cars can keep them looking new. Yet other consumers do not think they have to wax newer cars since they contain a clear coat.

What car wax does can be confusing for consumers. In the past wax used to be used to maintain the color of cars. The colors of cars transformed over time without wax. In the new era the car wax acts as an extra layer of protection and it helps maintain the glossiness of the car.

The problem with the clear coat is that it's a reflective layer of paint that is super thin. Clear coat is only a very thin layer of paint that is reflective. Since the clear coat is so thin it causes any kind of scratch to stand out. So if a car does not get washed and waxed on a regular basis it will begin to look dull from the elements of the world like acid rain.

The Florida panhandle was found to have more air pollution above any specific area of any other state. With any amount of pollution there is a certain amount of acid rain. What the study proved was that the rain could be as acidic or more than orange juice and coke. So imagine pouring orange juice on your car. You probably would not let it sit there on your car. You would take your car to go get washed. It is the same idea for car wax. That car wax allows for your car to be protected from any elements.

There is one last way to look at the reality of washing and waxing. Imagine going down to the beach. What do you usually do when you get to the beach? Normally you put on sunscreen to stop you from burning. You can think of the car wax as the sunscreen to protect your car.

Lots of consumers do not know they can easily look online for car wax. There are car wax stores online that offer strictly car wax along with your normal name brand stores. The specialty stores are not only easy to find but they usually have the best deal for consumers that are looking for car wax. So before running off to a major store try looking online and finding the best car wax for your car for your money. Related information Car wash
